Report of Library Trustees.

TO THE CITIZENS OF NORTH HAMPTON:

Our town library is helpful as the books are carefully read; even by those who read for entertainment there is some mental absorption, and if the tone of the book is high some profit will be gained. That the people have a decided interest in our library is evident from the number of books taken, as well as from the encouraging words which they speak.

The most serious question concerning our library is, where shall we house the books? The shelves are packed to the utmost, but they do not by any means hold all. A library building is an imperative necessity. It is hoped the town will take such action as will secure the erection of such. A longer delay would be unwise.

Eighty-two books of a high order have been added during the year, at an expense of one hundred dollars, and Mrs. C. H. Bell, of Exeter, has kindly donated Harper's Magazines for 1902. For these we are truly grateful. There have been catalogued in our library twelve hundred and seventy-four volumes, besides a large number which have value because of age, some of them having been purchased several generations past. There are also several maps which deserve a better place than they now have.

While our annual appropriation for books (which we recommend the continuance) is sufficient for this reading community, we should place the books in a building which in itself will be educating, and in which there should be a reading room with such other conveniences as will tend to the uplift of the community.

Respectfully submitted,

THOMAS V. HAINES, }
CHARLES W. PHILBRICK, } Library
 } Trustees.

NORTH HAMPTON, N. H., March, 1903.

Report of the School Board.

TO THE CITIZENS OF NORTH HAMPTON :

The entire work accomplished in our schools during the past year can never be reported, as much of it is in the realm which thus far has defied human language. The subtle influence of mind on mind is potent and lasting, but who shall tell us all about it? And yet it is a large factor in the work which the true teacher accomplishes. If the teacher's personality were a mere negation, then there might be coming on to the world-stage of action a generation of scientists, but not of well equipped men and women. Every school room has an atmosphere of heart-work, as well as head-work, and it is the heart-work which our report does not claim to cover.

One year ago we had four schools; now we have but three. There were so few scholars in the east part of the town, that it was considered best to place them all under one teacher. Mrs. Eva M. Taylor, who, as Miss Dalton, had taught the Primary department for several years, resigned in order to take up duties in the home of her choice, at the close of the winter term. Miss Susie O. French became the teacher for the spring term, putting into her work, energy and skill. Miss Florence E. Rollins, who had taught the Grammar department for one year, took the united schools at the beginning of the school year, and has shown much efficiency in the difficult work. As far as possible all the grades have been preserved. We have here an example of the changes which are going on in our community. A few years ago both schools were sufficiently large to be interesting; now there are but twenty-two scholars in all.

The change of teachers in the Center Grammar school has been greater than usual. Mr. C. F. Edmands returned at the commencement of the fall term, but resigned after three weeks that he might continue his studies at Clark University. He was succeeded by Mrs. Hope B. Blackler, and at the close of the term she was succeeded by Miss Nettie E. Campbell, who came with a reputation which she has ably maintained, having the "knack" of enthusing her scholars with the spirit of study. We have been more than fortunate in retaining Miss Edith M. Child in the Center Primary, as she is an efficient teacher in the right place. All of our schools are now under good management.

Early in the year the School Board carefully considered the question of establishing a High School in the town hall, as suggested at our last town meeting; and by so doing keep our advanced scholars in town, rather than pay their tuition at neighboring institutions, which the State law requires. But it was evident that the expense of such a High School would be much greater than the tuition now required; and it was expected there would be a change in the law, which, no doubt, will be made; while it was a question, if we could establish a High School of which the State Superintendent of Instruction could conscientiously approve. With these facts before us we believed it would be for the best good of the town to, at least, defer the matter, or drop it entirely. It doubtless will be for our best interest to follow the guidance of the law as amended. The future expense for tuition will be less than in the past, unless there is an increase of the number of scholars who go out of town to school.

As some of our scholars are not of sufficient age to appreciate the advantages of the Academy and High school, it may be wise to add another year to our Grammar schools, thus raising the standard.

Six were graduated from the Center Grammar school, who, although young, acquitted themselves well. That school now numbers thirty-one, and the Center Primary numbers twenty-six, which with the twenty-two in the East school, gives us seventy-nine scholars who are being educated in town. Frye's Elementary and Grammar school geographies have been introduced during the year, and have proved helpful. Some other books have been purchased as they were needed.

No general repairs have been needed upon the school rooms, except cleaning, and in some places repolishing. Both houses have been re-insured, although an additional insurance will be needed on the East school house soon. No further outlay, except what is usual, appears to be needed.

There are thirty-seven weeks in the school year.

The greater part of the pupils who go out of town attend Hampton Academy, although three are registered in Portsmouth High school and three at Robinson Seminary, Exeter. Twenty-seven informed the School Board of their intention to attend some higher institution. This number, with the seventy-nine who are being educated in town, with one at least who is studying in another State, gives one hundred and seven pupils.

The following are the names of those whose tuition is paid by the town :

At Hampton Academy—Nellie E. Moulton, Mary R. Moulton, Lester Tarlton, Ernest Moulton, Herbert Page, Ada Moulton, Rienzi L. Dalton, Amy M. Fenwick, Henry B. Philbrook, James F. Leavitt, Leon N.
